STATE UNIVERSITY NEWS NOTES

The big intercollegiate track and field meet which is held annually on Boyd field under the auspices of the state university, is now being arranged for 1913. The chairman of the faculty committee which has the meet in charge, Dr. John Darling, reports that the event will bring more scholastic to the university city to participate in the big contests than was ever known in the history of the university.

Many of the Oklahoma high schools are arranging with the university professors to deliver their commencement addresses next spring. The members of the faculty are more than glad to address the people of the state and especially the high schools at the different occasions to which they are invited. Drs. Brooks and Phelan and other members of the faculty have already received several invitations to fill commencement engagements in the spring.

The Sooner track team has been invited to enter the big indoor track meet which is to be held at the Convention Hall, Kansas City, March 1, under the auspices of the Kansas City Athletic Club. The track men from the university who are expected to enter the meet are Fred Hansen, John Jacobs, Daniel McIntosh, Raymond Courtwright and Tom Lowry. The Sooner relay team which is to enter the contest has never been defeated and is expected to do well against the teams from the universities of the Missouri Valley.

Dean Stocking of the school of pharmacy delivered a lecture before the state board of pharmacy and the candidates who took the examination for the certificate of registered pharmacist.

dist. at Oklahoma City Thursday, January 16th. The subject of Dean Stocking's address was "The History and Development of Ancient Pharmacy."

The university orchestra has been secured by the Chicago Chautauque Circuit to fill a number of engagements in Oklahoma towns next summer. The musical organization will soon make a trip in the northern part of the state filling engagements at Muskogee, Tulsa and other large Oklahoma towns.

At the meeting of the Chemistry Club which was held in the chapel on Thursday night, Dr. DeBarr delivered a lecture on the great lead and zinc industries of the state of Oklahoma. He has only recently made a visit to the northern parts of the state and visited the Guggenheim smelters at Bartlesville, Okla.

Frank Long who graduated from the university of Oklahoma with the class of 1908 is now secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at the university of Louisiana. While an undergraduate at Oklahoma Long was a prominent track star and he now coaches that department of athletics at the Louisiana school.

Dr. W. W. Phelan, director of the school of teaching and professor of psychology in the university, went to Pined Creek, Okla. Saturday, where he addressed the Grant County Teachers' Association at that place.

Hon. C. Ross Hume, first graduate from the university of Oklahoma, visited in Norman last week. Mr. Hume told about some of the early happenings at the Sooner school which are now looked upon as ancient traditions of the state university. He presented Secretary Newby with the first colors of the university which were worn at the first football game the university ever played with another school. Mr. Hume took his A. B. degree at Oklahoma university in 1898 and his M. A. in 1899. He is now county judge of Caddo county.

Hon. J. H. Maxey, present speaker of the house of representatives of the state legislature, was a former student of the university in its early days. While Mr. Maxey was at the university there was but one student in the college department of the institution. From the state university he went to the George Washington University law school, where he graduated. Since his graduation he has been prominently connected with the legal fraternity of the state of Oklahoma.

The January number of the University of Oklahoma Magazine is now out. It is a very creditable college magazine and contains several articles written by undergraduates which show decided merit and ability.

The school of pharmacy has recently received a shipment of new apparatus which will increase very much the efficiency of the laboratory of the school. The regular weekly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held Wednesday, January 23. Sam Smith, president of the local association, delivered the address of the meeting. Mr. Smith told his fellow students the reasons which prompted his decision to take up work in the foreign field in the interest of the Y. M. C. A. work. He will complete his work for the A. B. degree this month and will enter Yale university where he will study for the degree of M. A.

CREW COMMITS HARA-KIRI

Six Japanese Sailors on British Bark Helpmate End Lives When Mikado Dies.

Rehavana, Java.—The British bark Helpmate, Captain Steers, arrived here from the north Borneo coast manned by an island crew of natives picked up by the skipper after his former crew, six Japanese, had committed hara-kiri upon the deck of the vessel after learning of the death and burial of the mikado.

Captain Steers says that he was proceeding from Pelori Island to Zamora on the Borneo coast to complete his cargo of copra when he was hailed by the British barkentine Clyde Town, from the master of which he received a number of items of news, among them being the information of the Japanese emperor's death and burial.

Without realizing what it might mean, Captain Steers gave the tidings to the men, and immediately they were as stricken, raving about the ship and engaging in loud lamentations. When he remonstrated with them for allowing the bark to drift aimlessly they threatened his life and he said no more to them until he saw them gathered on the deck, each with a knife in his hand and stomach bared. The captain thereupon realized what was about to happen and came forth from his cabin with a repeating rifle, but the men paid no heed to him and upon a signal each killed himself.

The Helpmate, the captain alone alive on board, drifted helplessly, but finally made Hadzona bay without serious injury, and here Captain Steers succeeded, after some days, in prevailing upon enough natives to man his ship and sail it to this port.
